Parking at lay-by on A541 at SJ 1720 6812

From the lay-by, walk towards Denbigh and take the first turning on the left.

Follow the drive up towards Penbedw then, just after the drive bends right, bear left onto the track.

The track rises gently, passing a small wooded area, before fields open up on both sides.

About 350 mtrs past the woods, take the left fork, to pass through Firwood farm, and follow the track.

At first it continues upwards before descending down to emerge onto the unnamed road (SJ1625 6702).

Turn right to follow the road upwards.

The road is reasonably straight until, just after a sharp bend to the left, two jinks right then a sharpish left, a signed track cuts sharply back to the right (SJ1486 6598).

Follow the track / path as it traverses the contours to climb (through the pass between Moel Arthur to the left and Moel Plas Yw to the right) before descending.

After passing a small group of trees away to your left, keep to the track which skirts the left edge of the woods to your right.

After passing the track which joins from the right, watch out for the ruins of the property which gives this walk its name (Rumour has it that it is known as The Three Bears because of the three different roof heights??).

Continue on down to rejoin your earlier track at the Y-junction and retrace your path back down to the lay-by.
